General Comments:	As a Practicum student and as a student with my methods class, Brennan spent many hours with my students. He intently followed my leads in the beginning, taking notes on strategies and management techniques used in my classes. I could tell by the reflection papers submitted to me in his reflection papers for the methods class. Early on I gave him the opportunity to teach skills I was working on with the students and he took the challenge. He was nervous the beginning, but soon became very comfortable with teaching the students as time progressed. Voice volume in the outdoors and being comfortable to provide discipline for students not following classroom rules and procedures would be the two main areas to work on before he student teaches. Brennan has all the tools and skills to become a great Physical Education teacher.
